

Workshop Spotlight: We're Pleased to Present...

Margo L. Dill

Workshop: "Writing for Love AND Money: Ideas for Getting Paid Before You're Famous."

Location: Barnes & Noble-Crestwood
9618 Watson Road, Crestwood, MO 63126

Get map and directions.

Date: Saturday, October 4, 2008

Time: 10 AM until noon

SLWG members attend for FREE; $5 fee for non-members

Please register in advance

MARGO L. DILL is a freelance writer and elementary school teacher, living in Mahomet, Illinois. Her work has appeared in publications such as Grit, Pockets, On the Line, Teachers of Vision, Missouri Life, ByLine Magazine, and The News-Gazette. Margo is a columnist for WOW! Women On Writing, and she also writes a blog for teachers, parents, and librarians called "Read These Books and Use Them" (<http://margodill.com/blog/>).

Her first book, Finding My Place, a middle-grade historical novel, will be published by White Mane Kids in 2009. She owns her own freelance editing business, Editor 911, where she edits and proofreads any written document. When she's not writing, she loves spending time with her husband, stepson, and two dogs—Charlie, a boxer, and Hush Puppy, a basset hound. You can read more about Margo at www.margodill.com.