

Workshop Spotlight: We're Pleased to Present...

Barri L. Bumgarner

Workshop: "Marketing Yourself on a Small Budget"

Special Venue: Wired Coffee
Home of the SLWG Wired Coffee Open Mic Night
3860 South Lindbergh Blvd.
Sunset Hills, MO 63127
Get map and directions.

Date: Saturday, March 7, 2009
Time: 10 AM until 12:30 PM

SLWG members attend for FREE; $5 fee for non-members
Please register in advance

Ever wonder what it would take to sell thousands of books, even if you're self-published or with a small press? Learn some valuable tricks of the trade, as tried out and verified by a NY agent and an author who's put it to the test. From writing a quality query to the hottest NY tip: the Secret of Seven. Author Barri L. Bumgarner will share some amazing tricks to becoming a full-time author and making a quality living at it!

After years in a junior high classroom, Barri L. Bumgarner has released three novels, with three more in the works. Her YA novel, Dregs, tackles tough issues that lead to school violence, and won the Walter Williams Major Work Award, runner-up, 2008. Her other two novels are both award-nominated thrillers: psychological/suspense thriller Slipping, and debut sci-fi thriller 8 Days. Barri teaches at the University of Missouri, while completing her PhD. Her current projects include writing a prequel to 8 Days, a sequel to both Slipping and Dregs, as well as a true-crime book, Shades of Gray: The Steven Rios Story. Learn more at: www.barriLbumgarner.com.