Dear Young at Heart - whatever your age:

We Celtic elves need everyone's support to keep alive the wonderful stories about the good things we do. When you read AMOS and the WILD WELSHMAN, by author Jud Miner, I'm sure you will enjoy this uplifting adventure, its Celtic theme, and the stories in it from Welsh Mythology.

I think you should offer him an opportunity to give his presentation, My Book Writing/Marketing Adventure, to your association or book club. He's also available for book signings and readings. You will find, when you talk with him, that his knowledge of Celtic Mythology and his whimsical humor are very entertaining.

My Chief Sorcerer, Gwern Gwilt, asks that you read the comments about AMOS and the WILD WELSHMAN made by Amazon readers. You will find them on Amazon.com. I'd like to add that one his young readers told him she is starting a pet dragon club at her school as a result of reading his book. We elves applaud that. The Royal Red Dragon of Wales is our most treasured emblem.

May the blessings of Llew Llaw Gyffes be with you.

Your humble servant,

Cynbel

PS: My name is Welsh. Cynbel means warrior chief, and Cadwalader means leader in battle.
